We are pleased to announce that International Affairs has adopted a web-based submission and peer review system, ScholarOne Manuskripts. All new manuscript submissions should now be made at http://mc.manuscriptcentral.com/inta. We trust that this system will be quick and convenient for both authors and peer reviewers, and will enable us to reduce the time it takes to make a decision on a manuscript by making the editorial process as systematic and streamlined as possible.

Web-based manuscript submission is a step-by-step process that needs little special preparation other than having all parts of the manuscript in an electronic format and having access to a computer with an internet connection and a web-browser. To submit a manuscript to International Affairs authors should go to http://mc.manuscriptcentral.com/inta, where they can upload the manuscript and any other material they would like to communicate to Commissioning Editor Andrew Dorman. Full help and instructions are provided on-screen. As an author, you will be prompted for author and manuscript details and then to upload your manuscript file(s). In order to ensure that your manuscript conforms to journal style, please consult the ‘Information for authors’ located at the back of every issue, or the ‘Author guidelines’, which can be found on the journal’s homepage at http://www.chathamhouse.org/publications/ia (Chatham House) or www.internationalaffairsjournal.com (Wiley). Please remember that we review ‘double blind’, which means that neither authors nor reviewers know each others’ identity. To this end, please do not identify yourself, your colleagues or institution within the submitted files; instead, give your details during the submission process.

A completed submission is confirmed by email immediately and your article will then enter the editorial process. You will receive a unique manuscript number and you can check the progress of your manuscript at any time by returning to International Affairs’ ScholarOne page. When a decision is made, revisions can be submitted online, with an opportunity to view and respond to all comments.

Manuscript review will also be handled online. Reviewers will be given full instructions and access to the article at http://mc.manuscriptcentral.com/inta. The review form and comments can be completed online and immediately made available to the journal and the Commissioning Editor.

Full support for both authors and reviewers is provided. Each page of the website has a ‘Get help now’ icon connecting directly to the online support system at http://mchelp.manuscriptcentral.com/gethelpnow/index.html. If you do not have internet access or cannot submit online, the editorial office will help with online submissions. Please contact the Managing Editor Heidi Pettersson by telephone, +44 (0)20 7314 3662, or by e-mail, hpettersson@chathamhouse.org.

We hope that authors and peer reviewers will find that the new system makes the process easier for them and we look forward to streamlining the review process through use of ScholarOne, leading to rapid decision making and ensuring that the time from submission to publication is as short as possible.
