

Books reviewed

May 2017

AVEYARD: No solution	719	KHAN: The next pandemic	734
BESEMERES: A difficult neighbourhood	741	KINCH: The US–Iran relationship	744
CLARKE and SMITH, eds: China’s frontier regions	754	KLAMBERG: Power and law in international society	724
DOUMANIS, ed.: The Oxford handbook of European history, 1914–1945	720	KNOPF, ed.: International cooperation on WMD nonproliferation	728
DYSON and MAES, eds: Architects of the euro	737	MACKENZIE: Beyond the band of brothers	759
GERGES: A history of ISIS	742	MAHER: Salafi–Jihadism	742
GOH, eds: Rising China’s influence in developing Asia	756	MALLINSON and RISTIC: The threat of geopolitics to International Relations	730
GORDON: The rise and fall of American growth	732	METELITS: Security in Africa	748
GRIGAS: Beyond Crimea	740	MITTON: Rebels in a rotten state	747
GRINDLE and GOODMAN: Reflections on memory and democracy	761	MOORE, ed.: Privacy, security and accountability	718
HAAR and ERNST, eds: Innovation in emerging markets	733	RICH DORMAN: Understanding Zimbabwe	749
HANNIGAN: The Great War and American foreign policy, 1914–24	760	RIEFF: In praise of forgetting	727
HILLMAN and TUTTLE, eds: Ethnic conflict and protest in Tibet and Xinjiang	754	ROCK: Dictators, democrats, and development in Southeast Asia	757
HOOVER: Reconstructing human rights	717	STOLL FARRELL and GANGULY, eds: Heading East	751
JOHNSON: The Great War and the Middle East	722	TANSEY: The international politics of authoritarian rule	725
KANDIL: The power triangle	745	TEE: The Gülen movement in Turkey	738
		TREFON: Congo’s environmental paradox	735
		WISSING: Hopeless but optimistic	753
		ÅHÄLL and GREGORY, eds: Emotions, politics and war	731